

Session 1.2: Respect for everyone

Activity sheet 1.2.1: Give respect, get respect

Give respect Get respect

In this group we will have a 'Respect-for-all policy'.

This means that we will respect ourselves and we will respect others.

Everyone is important and should be treated with respect.

Look at the statements on the next page. Choose the one that describes respect-for-all.

You could cut them out and stick the correct one on the next page.

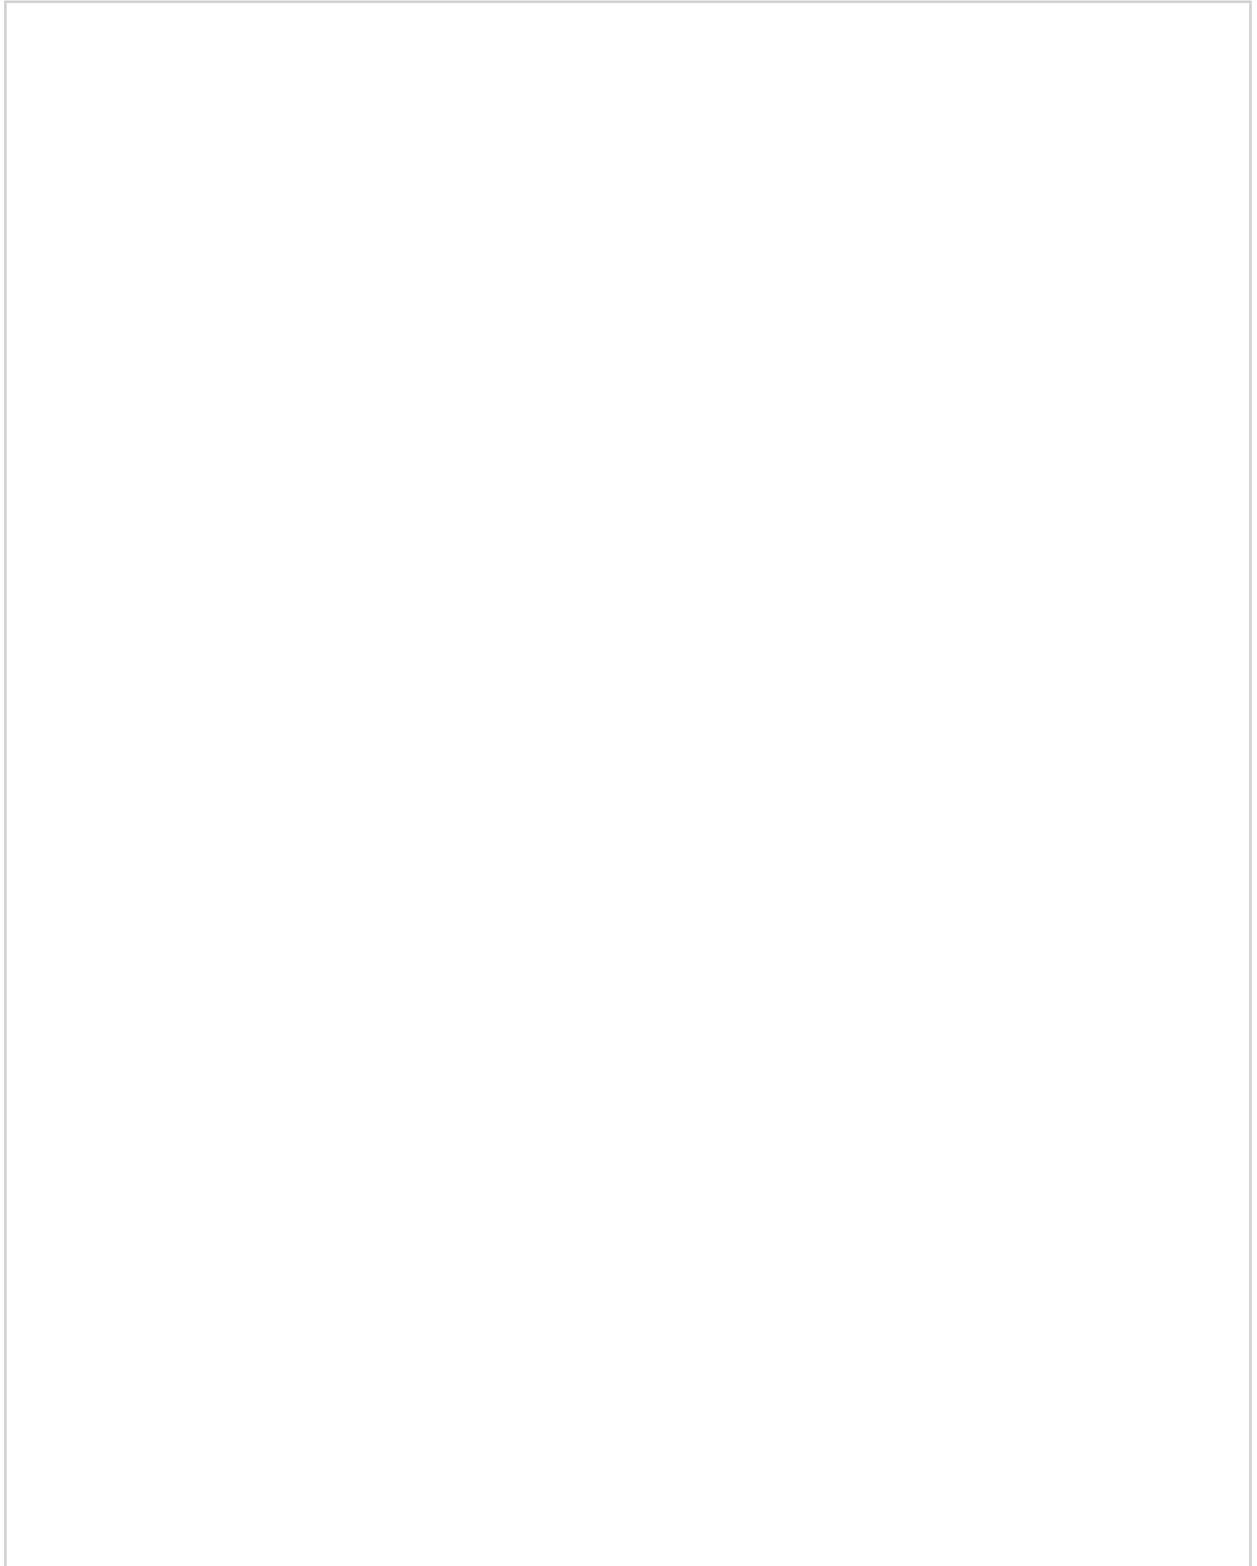

Pick the card which means 'respect-for-all'.

You are kind to nice people.	You do what other people want.
You like people who are the same colour as you are.	You put up with other people's behaviour.
You are important and others are important.	Other people are better than you.
You have to agree with other people.	You must never argue

Activity sheet 1.2.2: Respect-for-all

Stick the correct statement on the square below.

Respect for all means...

A large, empty square box with a thin black border, intended for students to stick a statement on.

Activity sheet 1.2.3: Respecting each other

Respect does not mean you put up with bad behaviour!

Respect does not mean you have to agree with everyone.

Talk about how we can respect each other in the group.

Write a list of how you can respect each other.

Activity sheet 1.2.4: Making a poster about respect

Use this activity sheet to draw or make a collage that shows what respect means to you.
